The Liberal Nationals' plan to get Victoria Back to Work

Since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, 219,000 Victorians have lost jobs, and thousands more have lost shifts and wages.

Victorian families need:

- A plan to get back their jobs and return to work
- Additional assistance to help kids who have fallen behind at school
- Opportunity to reconnect with local communities
- Support to ease cost of living pressures

Job losses in Victoria
(Sep 2020 ABS Labour Force figures)

Cut payroll tax until 30 June 2022 to assist Victorian businesses to keep people in work and employ more Victorians.

$100 Sports and Recreation Participation vouchers for all Victorian primary and secondary school students when registering with a club or provider.

'Road Trip for Victoria' vouchers offering up to a $200 discount on tours or accommodation when booking three nights or more, stimulating tourism in our state.

Catch-up classes and tutoring focused on literacy and numeracy to ensure our kids can make up for lost time in class.

The Liberal Nationals' plan to get Victoria Back to Work

Victorians have endured a lot this year.

The effects of the pandemic have touched all of us in different and profound ways. We now face more difficult social and economic recovery from the pandemic than anywhere else in Australia. Victoria needs a plan to keep our community safe from COVID-19, but at the same time to turn our focus to get Victorians back to work to repair the economic damage of lockdowns.

Recovery will be hard, but it is an opportunity to reshape our state, rebuild businesses and industries, and reclaim the Victorian way of life, which made Melbourne the most liveable city in the world.

The Victorian Liberal Nationals' Back to Work Plan will generate new jobs throughout the Victorian economy and give back security, and the feeling of security, to all. Our plan is for immediate action so that Victorians can get their jobs back, provide for their families, open their businesses, meet their rent and mortgage payments, educate their kids, keep healthy and protect elderly Victorians.
